Red Cross and United Charities Make Last Appeal For Funds

FEBRUARY IS LAST

Two Organizations to Divide Emergency Gift Now Being Raised

Hope gave $68 on the first day of the emergency drive for $1,000, the Red Cross and United Charities announced Friday.

This is the final appeal for winter relief work. Half of the $1,000 placed in this drive is to go to Red Cross drought relief work in Hempstead county, and the other half to the United Charities for relief work in the City of Hope.

Last Call

The national Red Cross has spent thousands of dollars in county relief work, toward which local citizens have given to date but $1,000. The present drive will add $500 to the Red Cross donations, completing the county budget of $1,500; and provide a separate $500 for relief work in the city.

February is the last winter month, and will probably terminate all local relief plans, as the planting season beginning the first of March will afford employment for the majority of those now forced to ask public help.

Lynn Smith Home Is Razed By Fire

$2,000 Loss Reported in Early Morning Blaze Friday

The residence of Lynn Smith, on West Sixth street, was razed by fire at 2 o'clock Friday morning, with loss estimated at $2,000.

The house was unoccupied, and was too far gone by the time the alarm was given to permit the fire department to save it.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith moved to El Dorado early in the winter when Mr. Smith, for several years county agent in Hempstead, was transferred to his new position in Union county. It was not learned whether the building was insured.

Young Maxon Not Guilty of Murder

Large Crowd Remains in Court Room to Hear Verdict

NEW YORK—(AP)—James Matthews Maxon, Jr., of Chattanooga, Tenn., was acquitted Thursday of the murder of David Paynter.

A considerable crowd had remained to hear the verdict. Young Maxon, visibly nervous, looked up when the verdict was read.

His father, Episcopal bishop and pastor of Tennessee, had returned to his side just a few minutes before.

The verdict cleared young Maxon of guilt in the death of his elderly fellow-lodger, beaten to death with a chair, in a rooming house brawl last Good Friday. Maxon had been in New York studying journalism.

Superintendent of Banks Questioned

Committee From Legislature Investigate Failure of Banks

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—A legislative investigating committee inquired Friday why criminal prosecution had not resulted from the failure of banks and the loss of state funds, estimated at several million dollars.

D. D. Robertson, superintendent of banks said he reported the results of his investigations to the district attorney general here and the state attorney general's office was fully advised of conditions by him.

Memphian Accused Extortion Scheme

Wrote Threatening Letter to Woman Demanding She Pay $200

MEMPHIS—(AP)—Charles W. Crain, 21, truck driver for a clothes cleaning concern, is in jail here for an alleged extortion scheme. Police said Crain confessed he wrote a threatening letter to a Memphis woman because he could not find the woman's home made him "mad."

Crain was arrested when he and a companion sauntered by a suburban street corner and picked up the box. It had been left there, under police suggestion, by a woman who had received a letter signed "Three XXX," with a demand for $200.

After his arrest police said Crain, driver for a clothes cleaning concern, confessed he conceived the idea in retaliation for the action of a house maid in closing the door abruptly when he appeared at the house to solicit business.

"It made me mad and I decided to get even," police quoted Crain as saying. He absolved his companion.

Testimony in Trial of Blackwell Ends

Arguments in Alleged Assault to Begin Friday

TEXARKANA—According to the Texarkana Gazette testimony in the trial of J. F. Blackwell, 66-year-old minister charged with criminally assaulting his two granddaughters, Viola and Estella Blackwell, aged 16 and 17 respectively, was concluded in fifth judicial district court late Thursday.

Although Blackwell is charged with assault upon both of the girls, he is only being tried on one of the counts in which Viola is involved.

Arguments in the case will start at 9 a. m. Friday, and it is believed that Blackwell's fate will rest with the jury shortly before noon.

Viola Blackwell was the only witness introduced by the state, while the defense called more than a dozen to testify to the character of the defendant.

Cross examination by defense attorneys tended to show that Blackwell was the subject of a conspiracy plotted by the two girls in order to get him in trouble so they could leave home. Witness after witness was called to the stand to testify to the general reputation of the minister.

The assault upon Viola is alleged by the state to have occurred September 15, 1930. Blackwell lives in the west end of Bowie county near Oak Grove.

H. L. Mencken Condemned for Article in Issue Baltimore Sun

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—H. L. Mencken magazine publisher, was condemned in a house resolution Friday for a recent article on Arkansas appearing in the Baltimore Sun, in which Mencken, among other things said, the Red Cross might feed Arkansas this year, but they would be no better off next year.

The resolution asserted Mencken "has tried for years to make Arkansas the butt of coarse ribaldry and distastes," the resolution however praised Mencken's literary ability.

BALTIMORE—(AP)—H. L. Mencken, criticized by the Arkansas house of representatives answered, "My only defense is that I didn't make Arkansas the butt of ridicule—God did it."

Wife's Data Used Against Cannon

Detective and Reporter Questioned in Hearing of Methodist Bishop

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Information Thursday night from within the hearing being conducted here on charges against Bishop James Cannon Jr., was that testimony had been given that information on which part of the charges are based came from Mrs. Helen McCallum, who later became the bishop's second wife.

The presentation of evidence against the temperance leader of the Methodist church, South, was completed at midnight Friday Bishop Cannon will present his defense.

Among witnesses examined were Austin O'Malley of the New York Journal, against whose publisher, William Randolph Hearst, Bishop Cannon has filed a suit for $5,000,000 damages which the prelate said he suffered when letters alleged to have been written by him and statements concerning him were published by the Journal.

Frank Morgan, a Richmond (Va.) detective, also was recalled for further examination. A former Department of Justice special agent, he was said to have worked for many months building up the case presented against Bishop Cannon by four elders of the church.

Morgan, considered the most important witness by opponents of Bishop Cannon, said after he had testified that he had been given a "warm reception."

"They fired questions at me from every angle," he said. "But I had the answers."

Howard Plans Big Radish Acreage

Expect 200 Acres Will Be Planted in Nashville Territory

NASHVILLE, Ark.—Radish seed will be in the ground for a crop of approximately 200 acres of the crop in this section by the end of this week or the first of next week, according to the plans of the growers. Many of the seed have already been planted, and the work of planting more is being pushed.

The radish crop affords the first returns from truck in this section, being a quick, early crop, and when the price is good, gives the growers a handsome return for the investment of labor and money. The land is available to rather crops early enough in the year to make good crops.

The price on radishes at the present is exceptionally good, although it is not hoped that this price will hold until the crop here is put on the market.

Campbell Makes 4 Miles a Minute

British Racer Travels 245 2-3 M. P. H. for New World's Record

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—An Englishman Thursday drove a 1,450-horsepower racing automobile to a new world's record of four miles a minute.

Capt. Malcolm Campbell, 46, wrestled the championship from the late Sir Henry Seagrave by striking an average speed of 245 2-3 miles an hour on the famous beach course bordering the ocean here. Campbell made two runs, covering the mile measured course southward at 245.57 miles an hour, and returning against the wind at 244.89. He traveled 14 1-2 miles an hour faster than Seagrave in 1929.

Captain Campbell, telling reporters about it afterward, said that he started three and a half miles back of the line marking the beginning of the measured mile. He shifted out of low gear into second at 80 miles an hour. At 130 he shifted into high—the motor sputtered slightly, and then the great racing car reached out and ate up the miles, rising above 200 m.p.h. and then close to 250.

Campbell said the greatest sensation he got during his two record-breaking runs came when he made that last shift into high gear and the car fairly shot away with him.

"That feeling was wonderful as the car carried me away with it," he said. "I guess the biggest thrill I got was when I took a bad swing just before I entered the mile on my south run. I swerved the car to miss a wet spot left by the tide. The car swayed badly, but I could not take my foot off the accelerator because I would have lost speed. I got it straightened out all right without difficulty."

FINISH IN TWO YEARS

The long-awaited tick-eradication measure has been introduced in the Arkansas senate by Senator L. L. Mitchell, of the Nevada-Hempstead district.

Senator Mitchell's bill, No. 115 in the senate, would appropriate $250,000 to complete the tick-eradication program by June 30, 1933. Whereas the development of the live stock industry through tick eradication is conceded to be a means of relieving and preventing agricultural depression, and

Whereas the immediate adoption of a program for completing cattle tick eradication in Arkansas at an early date will greatly reduce the cost thereof, now therefore,

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Arkansas:

Earthquake Area Under Martial Law

Rescue Workers Continue Search for Survivors in New Zealand

NAPIER, N. Z.—New Zealand's realm of ruin was under martial law Friday with armed Marines patrolling the streets to prevent looting and to see that nothing hampered the ceaseless toil of rescue workers seeking survivors among the wreckage left by Tuesday's earthquake.

All yesterday a great exodus continued, the inhabitants who had escaped death fleeing from the disease which it was feared might follow destruction of the city's sanitary system.

Communication between the razed towns of Hawkes Bay province and the outside world was re-established, and with scores of doctors, nurses and other relief workers present, all that was possible was being done for the hundreds of injured unable to be moved.

There were recurrent shocks during the evening, but no serious damage was done.

Red Cross workers estimated the number of dead in the whole quake district at more than 1,000.

Search for persons still alive was rewarded when one woman, still breathing was found in the debris of the Napier hospital and another one at a technical school.

Quakes continued Friday to shake Napier, Hastings and other towns of the region.

Survivors were further terrified during the night by a heavy shock which raised the sea bed four feet at the Napier Jetty, where the British War Ship Veronica lay stranded.

Fire again broke out at Hastings. Professor Sir Edgeworth Davis blames the quakes on the Pacific ocean. He said that the ocean, becoming deeper and deeper, exerted a tremendous pressure on abutments of New Zealand, causing them to give way.

Measure Lost in Senate; Author Is Assailed in House

Called a Hoovercrat By Raney of Woodruff County

ADMITS 1928 VOTE

Bill Abolishing Back Tax Suits Is Killed; Vote 54 to 36

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—The Senate today defeated the Fleming-house bill providing $15,000,000 for farm relief while in the house, the bill's author was in the center of a storm, following his defense of voting for Hoover in 1928.

The house previously amended the vote of 56 to 36 Senator Chaney's bill providing abolition of back tax suits.

Representative Toney of Jefferson county said the amendment "effectually killed it."

Fleming said he voted for Hoover for "his magnanimous deeds" after Raney of Woodruff county called him a Hoovercrat.

Fleming then took a position in front of the speakers chair and threatened to "make it a personal matter with you fellows out there."

He said he did not regret voting for Hoover.

America Friendly To the Newcomer

A. W. H. Schneider Speaks on International Program at Rotary

"America is the one nation in which a foreigner feels at home. Though he may live in another country many years, no nation but America ever takes him completely to its heart to become like a native son," so the Rotary club was told by A. W. H. Schneider at luncheon in Hotel Balfour Friday.

Mr. Schneider appeared on an international program arranged by C. S. Lowthorp, in charge of luncheon Friday.

Mr. Schneider, a German, was one of five men either foreign born or of foreign extraction, who typified the complex strain of American life. Other club guests were Herman Hoelscher, the Rev. Father G. F. X. Starnes, Louis Carlson and Robert Huguinin.

The speech of Mr. Schneider dealt with a year and a half residence in Paris, a similar residence in London, and his removal to the United States many years ago. He reminded his audience that a foreigner is entitled to special regard "for what lies behind him." "It takes courage," he said, "to leave one nation and go to another, without money or property, and to make headway among a strange people speaking an unfamiliar tongue. Men with such courage are pretty apt to get by. The forefathers of America were all foreigners, risking their all in a strange land."

The Rev. Mr. Strasser spoke on the Rotary club code of ethics. He likened the club's practice of calling its members by their first names, to the effort of all men to recapture the happiness and friendship of boyhood, when a first name was all anyone cared about.

The Last Call

HOPE has two reasons for answering the Red-Cross appeal for $1,000 this week.

It is for February—the last month of winter, and the last time a call will be necessary.

It is for the relief of our own people, for whom the clarion call has been sent out all over America. The national Red Cross tells us that we need to bring up our end of the donations.

We might add a third reason, always in order when misfortune is stalking the land—Thanksgiving.

We are thankful that although an average of 28 per cent of Arkansas' population is drawing some sort of aid from the Red Cross, only 18 per cent of Hempstead county's people is affected. Because less is required of us, we should give more.

There is no possible reason for excusing this city if it gives less money than its smaller neighbors do.

Half of the $1,000 asked this week is to go to the Red Cross, and the other half to the United Charities. The first is taking care of rural relief cases, and the second is offering relief within the city.

There may be a better cause somewhere in this world, but charity begins at home, and the time to begin is now! Let's get this job over with, and look forward to the balance of 1931 with an easier conscience.

Mail Direct to Bodcaw

THE announcement Thursday that a new star mail route will be established March 9 between Hope and Bodcaw, giving the Nevada county point direct mail service from this city, is concrete evidence of our nearly completed highway program.

Undoubtedly the decision of the Postoffice Department to let this mail contract was influenced by the fact that the State Highway Department finished the Hope-Bodcaw road last fall, and that an all-weather highway has been open from this city to Rosston, Bodcaw and lower Nevada county towns during the winter.

The Bodcaw star route is the second improvement to be its neighboring community for a long time, and with Thursday's announcement we give the Postoffice Department the thanks that are due it.

This new service means that a direct mail connection is established between two points only 20 miles apart, and it will be possible for a letter to make the roundtrip in 24 hours. Despite Hope's excellent railway-mail connections, this city is frequently penalized in its relations with smaller communities by a circuitous rural mail route.

The Bodcaw star route is the second improvement to be declared here by the Postoffice Department. The other one was the star route to Okay, last summer. Both services give quick, direct mail deliveries from and to the Hope post-office.

Mob "Justice"

PEOPLE who do not think are always dangerous. And mobs seldom have any sagacious thoughts—chasing themselves around their heads. They are willing to play follow-the-leader and the more exciting the game he suggests the more eagerly they crack the whip or go in for tag. The very fact that a large number of other people are in on the plot, whatever it is, seems to relieve each member of the group of any personal responsibility.

A recent example was at Schafer, N. D., where a mob broke into the jail and took charge of a man who had confessed that he had killed a family of six people. Certainly no one would plead any leniency for Charles Bannon. But the law was looking after him in a perfectly orderly, trustworthy way. He was going to be given the punishment he deserved.

But a mob got busy. Not one of the men could claim that he was merely out to do his duty for there was no need of that. That queer, half-savage spirit that comes to the front when mobs gather wanted a play . . . one with bloodshed and horrors, the kind that go best at night. Here was an excuse for one.

So they took the prisoner, put a noose around his neck, fastened the other end of the rope to the bridge railing, and pushed him off. There was a queer strangled sound in his throat, then silence. A dark silence with a wind stirring along Chery creek, and men hanging their heads a little skeptically because of what they had done.

For such an act always demoralizes a community. It lowers the standards of those who take part. They can never be the men that they were before. Not after having given vent to a bestial notion.

No one would criticize the group for its reaction to the murderer. He probably received the medicine he deserved. But when we have duly constituted agencies which will dispense justice in approved doses it is too bad that other interfere.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—A few months ago Mr. Calvin Coolidge was invited to a meal at the White House and there were others there and there came a time when Mr. Coolidge said to Mr. Hoover: "Mr. President, I can't agree with you about that."

And one of the White House secretaries whispered to the man next to him at the table: "That's the first time anyone ever said that to the chief."

Maybe the story isn't true, but it wouldn't be passed on here if it didn't come from a pretty good source.

SUCH a story comes to mind as one reflects on Mr. Hoover and his present position, especially with regard to his troubles with Congress and the report that he made the Wickersham commission abandon its intention to recommend a revision of the 18th amendment.

It becomes more and more obvious that Mr. Hoover is only happy when he can boss the show with undisputed power. That doesn't mean that he is just "bossy" in any offensive sense. It is a fundamental belief of his, which he has expressed, that responsibility in operating a project should be centered on one man and that there should be no division of authority.

Naturally, a balky Senate which refuses to co-operate with the administration to the point of obeying his wishes appears to him to present a snag in what otherwise would be the efficient operation of government. He has always been impatient with those who disagreed with him and, although loyal and valuable to his superiors when he has had successes, has achieved his principal successes in such cases as he has held dictatorship over the particular field of effort.

That's one reason why it has come about that Mr. Hoover regards the Senate with increasing hatred and the Senate has returned the sentiment in kind.

OUTSIDE Congress Mr. Hoover reigns with undisputed authority. Wickersham, supposed to be the chairman of an unprejudiced, deliberative body which was expected to give an unflinching report on prohibition and other problems in law enforcement, has been regarded by some as Hoover's messenger boy. The president got Wickersham in the commission's early days to jam through a preliminary prohibition report and some suggested enforcement measures before the commission had a chance to take a good look at prohibition. The recent charge that the president had dictated alteration of its final conclusions and recommendations came as a jolt to nearly everyone, but nevertheless the president seems to get what he wants outside of Congress as well as the fact that he dominates the government and all its branches wherever there is no constitutional division of authority.

THE instance of the Wickersham commission is not good, but one it was Mr. Hoover who promoted and endorsed the eastern railroad consolidation, bringing obvious pressure to bear on the Interstate Commerce Commission whose members are, presidentially appointed but which is supposed to reach its conclusions with entire independence. His wishes were carried into effect when the new power commission fired Solicitor Russell and Chief Accountant King. He was thought to be behind the steam roller at the child health conference which tried to get child health work away from the Children's Bureau and into the U. S. Public Health Service. The Red Cross has been showing that it responded completely to his influence. The cabinet, some of its own members privately admit, has become a group of White House servants who no longer presume to advise the president at their regular meetings. Mr. Hoover, it appears, sometimes seeks information but never advice.

WHETHER public opinion will eventually be found largely in support of Mr. Hoover and his theory of the executive power is an interesting matter for speculation. The country has no great love for Congress, but the business depression has made it more than ordinarily difficult for the president to attract sympathy and aid. Both Hoover and his congressional opponents are doing their utmost to sell their sides of the case to the people.

Some leaders lead too far ahead,
High visioned, unafraid;
Yet, ages after they are dead,
We tread the paths they made.

Some leaders lead too far behind,
Nur seem to keep the track,
Yet they bring on the deaf and blind,
Who else would hold us back.

And some see most to lead at all,
Slow moving on the way,
Yet help the weary feet and small
Of those who else would stray.

Lead on, O leaders of the race!
Your work is long and wide;
We need your help in every place—
Before, behind, beside.

City Folks Seeking Homes in The West

Letters of Inquiry Pouring Into General Land Office

WASHINGTON—(A)—Thousands of city dwellers are seeking to find out if there's a place for them in the big open spaces of the West.

At a rate of 400 to a day their letters are piling up at the general land office. They want to know how to go about filing claims for homesteads on public lands. Long-time employees of the land office recalled on Thursday that in each of the decades of the past 30 years, applications for government lands doubled and tripled. They are following the precedent now in even greater proportion but the news they get is less encouraging.

For little if any of the public domain remaining is suitable for farming and the land office in giving applicants instructions on establishing claims adds that warning.

Hendrix-Henderson Science Hall Ready in September

NEW SCIENCE HALL AT HENDRIX-HENDERSON

Above is an architect's drawing of the new science hall now under construction at Hendrix-Henderson College at Conway. This new building is to be completed before the next school term.

CONWAY, Ark.—Construction of Hendrix-Henderson's new science hall, shown here in architect's drawing, is continuing with speed and will be finished before the opening of the 48th session of the college next September. The new building, 65 feet wide and 120 feet long, will contain all the latest details toward utility and efficiency.

Dr. M. J. McHenry, who has been at Hendrix-Henderson for 19 years, has watched the growth of the building from the time it was a dream until now. He is the man most responsible for all the details of layout, for the arrangements of the eight laboratories, for the central system of store room management and the electric freight elevator, and for the conduits which in future years will make it possible for electrical arrangements to control everything that is going on in the building from any one room.

When Dr. L. O. Leach, professor of physics and chemistry, came to Hendrix-Henderson a year and a half ago, Dr. McHenry took his ideas about arranging the chemical and physical apparatus to supplement his own, and the two together have guarded against errors in construction since the building was begun in October.

HOOKS AND SLIDES by William Braucher

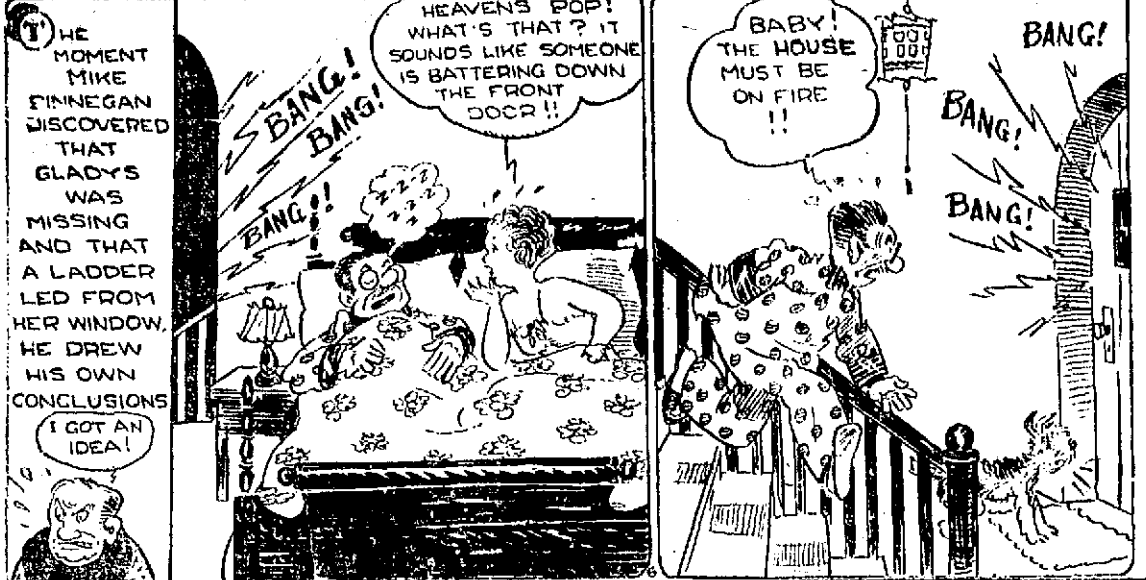

A Baseball Racket?
USUALLY there are two or three ball players on a big league club who refuse to sign the first contract sent to them. They return the documents, unsigned, asking for more money.
But what is a major league business manager going to do when most of the stars on his team refuse to accept the terms offered by their kindly employers? It's being done on one major league team this year—the Cleveland Indians.
The first to be heard from was pitcher Wesley Ferrell, the young ace who won 25 games last season. He was reported to have asked for $25,000 for his signature this year. But when General Manager Billy Evans, the former umpire, received his demand he was not startled. Ferrell is a hard-headed young man and is hard to do business with.
More Big Shots
But soon other contracts began coming back, without a mark on them. Catcher Luke Sewell's was politely returned. First baseman, Eddie Morgan, returned his. Johnny Hodapp, the hard-hitting second baseman, came up from Cincinnati personally, established himself in a hotel, and announced he was ready to reject any advances that might be made until his terms were met. Earl Averill, center fielder, was the next to be heard from with the bad news. And not a word has been heard from Twitchy Dick Porter, the sensational right fielder.
The affair has started to assume the proportions of a racket.
Evans says he isn't worried.
"The highest possible terms were made," says Billy, "when the contracts were sent out. We are trying to pull over the idea that the Cleveland club is a one-price question, and the price is right. Players are offered all they feel worthy and there will be no compromise."
Increases Offered
NEARLY all the men were offered increases, he said, and the figures offered Ferrell represented more money than was paid Lefty Grove or George Earnshaw last year. Evans declares the owners of the club "would rather finish eighth than let the players run the team." Cleveland sports writers hint at a plot among the boys to shake down the millionaire owners of the club. The millionaire owners are the Van Swearingens, railroad magnates; the Bradleys; John Sherwin (the paint manufacturer); and Percy Morgan. Since buying the team, the owners have spent considerable in the purchase of new players, and announce the policy of naming the figures they think the men are worth and refusing to go beyond it.
The holdouts at Cleveland will be watched with interest by baseball men all over the country.

"Free Love" Coming to Sanger Theatre Sunday
Lively, sparkling, wide open blue eyes—opened wide in amazement—quick staccato, decisive speech, clear-cut and alive!
Such is the first impression one gains in Genevieve Tobin, comely stage star who has met Hollywood and taken it by storm in her first two Universal pictures, "A Lady Surrenders" and "Free Love," the latter being the attraction at the Sanger Theatre starting Sunday.
Miss Tobin has tiny hands, perfectly moulded. "They're the feature I dislike most about myself. I always have to have my gloves made to order or buy children's sizes," she states ruefully.
Blonde hair, gracefully waved, silky and gleaming.
A delightful English accent of which one is not conscious after the first dozen words—a determined chin and snapping eyes—a complexion which is flawless and a constant joy to the cameraman. Such a description proves a fair appraisal of Miss Tobin.
Her mother has been her constant companion on her invasion of London, where she played the lead in "The Trial of Mary Dugan," in New York during the runs of "Polly Preferred," "Fifty Million Frenchmen" and other hits, and now for a year in Hollywood, where Mother Tobin keeps house for her and manages her business affairs.
Very simple and inauspicious is the private life of Miss Tobin. She lunches quietly in her dressing room on food which has been prepared at home and brought to the studio by her mother.
The impressions which she gained during her year in England are clearly shown in her mode of dress which is decidedly smart but bears the unmistakable mark of British taste. She is of Irish descent. She'd like to try writing.
She has a sparkling sense of humor but it is little known to those who are not close friends. She is a bit shy among strangers but she never fails to make friends of those she meets.
Genevieve Tobin is indeed one of the distinctive newcomers to the films and even bolder and critical Hollywood has been quick to applaud her talent and predict a brilliant screen career for her.

CANADIAN INDIANS PLAYING A GAME SOMEWHAT LIKE OUR PRESENT DAY HOCKEY, WOULD GLEEFULLY GRUNT OUT THE WORD "HO-GHEE" WHEN BY ACCIDENT OR INTENT THEY'D MISS THE BALL AND BASH AN OPPONENT ON THE HEAD.

Tulane Professors Find New Language
NEW ORLEANS.—(U.P.)—Tulane professors find students speaking an entirely different language outside class rooms, with many speaking phrases peculiar to their own campus.
For example:
Intoxication is referred to as, "ory-eyed," "friend," and "ple-eyed."
"Blinge," "tear," and "a jag" all mean hilarious parties.
If a student passes out he has "drawn a blank," and if he does not drink he "rides the H-2-O vehicle."
"Pulling a Jack Levey" is to give up in despair.
The girl friend is a "rib" or a "jil."
Phil—Henry has decided not to take a medical course.
Pearl—The brave boy! Just think of the lives he's saved.

He was a stranger in the neighborhood and had been brought to a dance at the local deaf-and-dumb hospital by an old friend, the doctor. "How on earth can I ask a deaf and dumb girl to dance," he asked, a trifle anxious.
"Just smile and bow to her," replied the doctor.
So the young man picked out a pretty girl and bowed and smiled, and she bowed and smiled, and away they danced. They danced not only once, twice and three, and he was on the point of bowing and smiling for another when a strange man approached his partner and said, softly:
"I say darling, when are we going to have another dance. It's almost an hour since I had one with you."
"I know dear," answered the girl, "but I don't know how to get away from this deaf-and-dumb fellow!"
The Goofleys were moving to another house. Suddenly Mrs. Gooffley discovered that little Archibald was missing. "Have you seen my little boy," she asked one of the moving men.
"Na, ma'am," he replied. "I ain't seen nothing of him since we rolled up the carpet that went out on our first load."
Billy—Say, naw, how much'm I worth.
Mother—Why, you're worth a million to me, my dear boy.
Billie—Well, then, could you advance me a quarter?
A good minister recently purchased a second-hand flyover which was not so good. For a week, he drove it about the country by himself, and time again it would stop without the slightest warning. After a hard week, the good minister appeared in church. The organ was playing lustily, when suddenly it stopped. In the embarrassed silence that followed, the congregation was much astonished to see the minister rest his head on his hands, and exclaim:
"Now, what the hell's the matter?"
Woman, to bank teller—I would like to start a drawing account with your bank.
Teller—Very well, madam. How much do you wish to deposit?
Woman—Oh, I don't want to deposit anything. I just want to draw checks, and pay the money back in installments.

Spartanburg, S. C.—Thousands of persons who have taken Theodor's Black-Draught have had results as satisfactory as reported below by Mrs. S. B. Hottel, of 127 Forest Street, this city.

"I heard of Black-Draught and began taking it. This trouble in my chest disappeared—the pain left me. I am so much better.

Give a Neighbor a Job

Look carefully about your own neighborhood and you will realize that for every person out of a job, there are eight or nine of your friends and neighbors working.

Now, if you eight or nine who are working will only get together and to the extent you can afford it, give that one out of work something to do, you will be contributing the most helpful, constructive service possible toward breaking up unemployment.

For instance, there are plenty of ways, right in your own home, of investing your money in labor and materials, putting in needed improvements, repairs, additions... and doing these things under most favorable circumstances. You are not wasting a penny. You are putting idle money to work profitably, productively, and patriotically—if it is promptly done.

Suppose you talk this over with your employed neighbors and arrange right away to divide between you the labor of a man or two, for however long you can.

Your duty as a citizen

Be active in all community work which is meeting present conditions. Let your Mayor know you are behind him in all organized action providing employment.

Your opportunity as an individual

Make all proper purchases possible. Give employment by starting repairs, painting, etc., which add to the value of your property.
